Motor Insurance: भारतीय सड़कों पर लाखों लोग ऐसे हैं जो थर्ड-पार्टी इंश्योरेंस के बिना सड़क पर अपना वाहन चलाते हैं। ऐसे वाहनों से कहीं दुर्घटना होती है तो किसी दूसरे व्यक्ति, वाहन या प्रॉपर्टी को हुई चोट, जानमाल के नुकसान या क्षति के लिए गाड़ी के मालिक को आर्थिक रूप से जिम्मेदार ठहराया जा सकता है। इन खर्चों का बिल लाखों या करोड़ों तक जा सकता है।

Third Party Insurance: भारत की सड़कों पर जितनी मोटर गाड़ियां दौड़ती हैं, उनमें से 50 फीसदी से भी ज्यादा वाहन बिना इंश्योरेंस के हैं। ऐसे मोटर के मालिकों के लिए दुर्घटना अप्रत्याशित खर्च ला सकती है। जैसे कि वाहन की मरम्मत, इलाज का खर्च, या दोनों। ऐसे में आपकी सहायक बनती हैं थर्ड पार्टी इंश्योरेंस की पॉलिसी। इफको टोकिओ जनरल इंश्योरेंस कंपनी लिमिटेड की ईडी निहारिका सिंह हमें बता रही हैं इस बारे में।

Driving without Third-party Insurance Can Cost You More than Just Traffic Police Challan

NewsVoir

New Delhi [India], January 30: If you drive your vehicle on the road without third-party insurance, you risk far more than just repair bills for your own vehicle. In the event of an accident, you may also be held financially responsible for injuries, loss of life, or damage caused to another person, vehicle, or property--costs that can run into lakhs or even crores.

What is Third-Party Insurance?

As the name suggests, a third party refers to any person, vehicle, or property that suffers injury or damage in an accident involving your vehicle. In a third-party insurance policy, the agreement is between you (the first party) and the insurance company (the second party), under which the insurer compensates losses or claims made by the affected third party arising from the accident.

Explaining this further, Niharika Singh, Executive Director – Marketing, IFFCO TOKIO General Insurance Company Limited, said, “A third party refers to anyone other than the vehicle owner or driver—such as pedestrians, occupants of another car, or riders of another two-wheeler.”

What is Third-Party Insurance?

As the name suggests, a third party refers to any person, vehicle, or property that suffers injury or damage in an accident involving your vehicle. In a third-party insurance policy, the agreement is between you (the first party) and the insurance company (the second party), under which the insurer compensates losses or claims made by the affected third party arising from the accident.

Explaining this further, Niharika Singh, Executive Director – Marketing, IFFCO TOKIO General Insurance Company Limited, said, “A third party refers to anyone other than the vehicle owner or driver—such as pedestrians, occupants of another car, or riders of another two-wheeler.”

What is Third-Party Insurance?

As the name suggests, a third party refers to any person, vehicle, or property that suffers injury or damage in an accident involving your vehicle. In a third-party insurance policy, the agreement is between you (the first party) and the insurance company (the second party), under which the insurer compensates losses or claims made by the affected third party arising from the accident.

Explaining this further, Niharika Singh, Executive Director – Marketing, IFFCO TOKIO General Insurance Company Limited, said, “A third party refers to anyone other than the vehicle owner or driver—such as pedestrians, occupants of another car, or riders of another two-wheeler.”

What is Third-Party Insurance?

As the name suggests, a third party refers to any person, vehicle, or property that suffers injury or damage in an accident involving your vehicle. In a third-party insurance policy, the agreement is between you (the first party) and the insurance company (the second party), under which the insurer compensates losses or claims made by the affected third party arising from the accident.

Explaining this further, Niharika Singh, Executive Director – Marketing, IFFCO TOKIO General Insurance Company Limited, said, “A third party refers to anyone other than the vehicle owner or driver—such as pedestrians, occupants of another car, or riders of another two-wheeler.”
